ersy will be the major source of power in the future and every civilised country must know about it whether it uses it or not. The year 1965 was one of mounting tension between East and West, overstomic and nuclear energy among other things, and it seems clear that declassification just at that time helped to break what was building up into highly explosive political and moral tensions. But Randers went a step further. His organization has now built a very modern reactor, perhaps the most modern in the world, and when it was completed this summer offered it for common experiment to countries in the European Economic Union and Euratom. BONN. — The West German Chancellor, Dr. Adenauer, hopes to go to London next Friday for t a 1 k s with Frime Minister Macmillan, the West German News Agency, D.P.A., reported on Monday night.

The three Western Ambassadors in Bonn were due to have talks on the Berlin situation with the West German Foreign Minister, Dr. Von Brentano, on Monday afternoon at his request, it was authoritatively learned. Unofficial total figures for the Berlin City Parliament elections on Sunday show the Social Democrats won a majority of 523 per cent. The Christian Democrats received 379 per cent and the Communists 1.95 per cent. A preliminary unofficial count gave the following distribution of seats in the 133-member House: Bocial Democrats 78; Christian Democrats 76; Christian Democ

will bear down on offenders with the full weight of the law, including the suspension of driving licences, Traffic
Chief M. Shlassky warned.

For Reckless Driving Eliezer Livneh, Editor of "Beterem," was on Monday fined IL75 in Jerusalem Magistrate's Court for reckless driving and leaving the site of an accident in which he was involved before the arrival of the traffic police. Mr. Livneh did not appear in court, and was fined in absentia.

Driving his own car last May, Livneh had passed two cyclists at an intersection in Jerusalem and had knocked one of them off his machine. A police officer who happened on the scene told Livneh to wait in his car while he went to fetch a traffic constable. Livneh waited five minutes and then drove off.

He was fined IL45 for the driving offence and IL30 for not waiting at the scene of the accident. (Itim)

Open Statement By 'Ketter' Workers

"The Histadrut is trying to compel us to join against our will'

We the undersigned are the elected representatives of all workers of Ketter Textile Products, Inc., Ramat Gan. We hereby wish to bring the following to the notice of the general public, in order that it may form its own opinion of the situation.

About one hundred workers are employed by the above enterprise. In the past few years relations between management and employees have been mutually satisfactory. Employees have enjoyed conditions similar to those granted all workers in similar establishments in Israel, including those enterprises employing Histadrut labour. We have never felt the need to join a labour fede-

Some days ago the Ramat Gan Labour Council, affiliated to the Histadrut, stationed pickets near the factory premises in order to stop work there and compel the employees to organize within the Histadrut, and compel the management of the enterprise to sign a labour contract with the Histadrut.

The strike was organised against the will of the em-ployees of the enterprise, and without their being con-sulted in any way. Workers who tried to enter the premises were prevented from doing so by the pickets who used force.

Women employees who tried to enter the premises were forcibly dragged into taxis and driven away to prevent them from entering the factory.

We hereby appeal to public opinion to use its weight, against the employment of such methods, and to all parties able to prevent the use of violence to intervene in order to prevent the recurrence of such acts.

We wish to be left to work without interference and, without the exercise of any pressure on us. Should we think fit to join a labour federation we shall do so on our own initiative, and shall then join any federation we see fit. We have, in this connection, held two meetings, one with representatives of the General Federation of Labour (Histadrut ha'Ovdim ha'Klalit) and another with representatives of the National Federation of Labour (Histadrut ha'Oydim ha'Leumit) on December 7, 1956. Further meetings are scheduled for next week.

Final Extract from the Story of Anthony Eden

Ten was concerned with Government and not with party propaganda, some of Sir Anthony's friends thought that the appointment was ill-judged. Politicians of both parties when they come to office inherit Civil Servants who have been long trained in the suppression and indeed the oblivion of their own partisan opinions. They have schooled themselves to do their duty faithfully by politicians of either party. For a Minister to introduce into the Civil Service someone from outside its ranks who had long held opinions directly opposed to himself seemed to present an unnecessary risk and to impose an almost superhuman act of self-discipline on the appointee.

Sir Anthony has publicly and privately denied that he had any foreknowledge of the impending Israel attack upon Egypt, Eden is an honourable man, and his word must be accepted. But we must ask: "Why didn't he know?"

It is the duty of a British Prime Minister who is com-

"Could be" — Weisskopf calmly answered. "I worked in that neighbourhood, at Schwartz's. You are an apartment broker, aren't you?"

"Yes. My office was on King Street."

"I remember you. Always had trouble with your door bell."

Silence. Playful dolphins frollicked round the ship.

"I only kept wondering if this Reingewerz would dare board a plane if he had the opportunity."

"I doubt it. We know each other well. He has been our grocer for the past ten years. Always had excellent potatoes..."

Again silence. There was nothing more to be said. The two went on smoking peacefully. They were visibly happy and contented. When they looked at each other, their glance was pure, calm and self-possessed, like that of people who always stand up to anything that occurs to them.
